A servant who acquired the scanty locks, after trimming the lamps, soon had a good head of hair, mused by the medical qualities of the petroleum. This came under the observation of a thorough chemist, who, after repeated experiments, succeeded in deadorizing petroleum, and the result is "Carboline," the most effective hair dressing and resonative of the age. It removes daudruff, cleans the scalp and imparts renewed activity to the law cles, thus restoring the growth to he patural strength and vigor.
